

Corporate Donations

From time to time Youth@HEART approaches companies and corporations with presentations in search of contributions towards the costs of providing our services. Even though we feel that Youth@HEART represent a social conscience, we feel that it can never be expected of any company to just pay some organisations' bills. Full transparency is offered to such corporate donors.

Wherever possible, recognition is given to corporate sponsors by e.g. incorporating their names and/or logos in publications, thus recognising their sponsorships. Especially in the areas of Arts and Recreation, events sponsored by companies, are marketed under their name, thus providing them with a public image and recognition of involvement.
